How to protect snakes:

When you go into the jungle, there are some simple rules to follow:

1. Never go into the jungle by yourself. It can be a dangerous place and it is easy to get lost or hurt.
2. Stay on the path. This will help you to find your way back, and will make sure you do not step on the small bushes and undergrowth where the snakes live.
3. Cut only the bamboo poles you need. Don't take more than you need, or cut other trees. The snakes need the trees and bushes to live in.
4. Leave only your footprints behind. Do not drop litter or light fires in the jungle. You will be damaging the homes of many snakes.

Comprehension questions:

1. Why should you never go into the jungle by yourself?

2. Where should you stay?

3. Where do snakes live?

4. What should you leave behind in the jungle?

5. What should you NOT do in the jungle? Why?
