VII. Supply the correct form of the word given in bracket. There is an example at the beginning (0).

It is (0. EXCEED) _____ difficult to ascertain precisely what is meant by the word "culture". The word is commonly used to refer to almost anything connected with a person's (46. CUSTOM) _____ behavior when (47. CONSIDER) _____ distinctive is form to that of a person from another background. The problem is that this definition begs the questions. Is it race that determines the difference in culture? Or is it nationhood? Certainly, there are (48. NOTICE) _____ cultural differences between citizens of various nations, although they may share (49. MEMBER) _____ of the same race. Is language perhaps the (50. DETERMINE) _____ of culture? Or class? After all, even within the same nation there are extreme differences between the lifestyle and language of the classes that make up a (51. SOCIAL) _____, as well as varying attitudes towards acceptable behavior and manners. The problem appears to be that, on closer (52. ANALYSE) _____, each and every one of us belongs to a unique culture, regardless of the apparent general culture into which we are categorized. It all depends on how (53. NARROWNESS) _____ the word is defined for its intended purpose. By analyzing the word "culture", (54. ANTHROPOLOGY) _____ are beginning to accept that the word is much (55. LOOK) _____.

VIII. Read the text below and think of ONE word which best fits each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

One of the (0) _____ mysterious things in nature is the ability of certain creatures to find their way home, sometimes from great distances. Birds are not the (56) _____ ones who can do this. Bees, eels, and salmon are (57) _____ to return to a particular place after long journey, too.

Many experiments have been made with birds in an attempt to find out what guides them on their way home. In one case, seven swallows were taken 400 miles from home. When they were set (58) _____, five of them returned to their nests. In another case, a certain kind of sea bird was taken home to its nest, a distance of 930 miles if it flew in a straight line.

(60) _____ birds offer an even more amazing example of this ability. There are swallows that migrate from England to South Africa every year. They not only return to England the next spring, but many of them come back to nest in the very same house where they (61) _____ the year before. They fly the incredible distance of 6,000 miles, one way.

Certain types of butterflies migrate, too, and find their way home over long (62) _____. In the tropics one can sometimes see great mass flights of butterflies and all flying steadily in one (63) _____. They may go a thousand miles and more, and then return again to explain how these creatures find their way home, we still have no sure (64) _____. Since many of the birds fly over great bodies of water, we can't explain it by saying they use landmarks to guide them. Just to say they have an "instinct" doesn't really explain the right conditions. The reason they do it may be to obtain food or to reproduce under the right conditions. But the signals and guideposts they use on their flights are still a (65) _____ to us.

IX. Read the text below and look carefully at each line. Pick out the unnecessary word in most lines of the passage. If the line is correct put the tick ✓ by the number of the question.
