

COMPOUND SENTENCES

A compound sentence is formed when two simple sentences are joined by a conjunction such as: and, but, or. A comma is placed before the conjunction in the sentence.

Read each sentence and then choose if the sentence is a compound sentence or not a compound sentence.

1. Jack finished all the math problem, but he got them all wrong.

compound sentence

not a compound sentence

2. The hostess walked us to our table, and she gave us some menus.

compound sentence

not a compound sentence

3. Do you want green peppers, or do you prefer broccoli.

compound sentence

not a compound sentence

4. The girls and boys were at the party dancing.

compound sentence

not a compound sentence

5. They did not have soup, but they did have salad.

compound sentence

not a compound sentence

6. He does not ski, but he does skate.

compound sentence

not a compound sentence

7. The fisherman caught many fish, but there are too small.

compound sentence

not a compound sentence

8. Dennis ate the chicken and chips.

compound sentence

not a compound sentence

9. The girl was wearing a red dress.

compound sentence

not a compound sentence

10. Mrs. Victor did not know if to turn either left or right.

compound sentence

not a compound sentence

created by: Alicia Charles