

Pros and Cons of Reading Newspapers

But is reading the newspaper a good habit to have? There's plenty of benefits to reading the newspaper. First, it gives people a good habit for the morning while staying informed on current events. It also improves vocabulary and language skills. Researchers concluded that the ones that frequently read the paper had the best results in understanding the English language and expanded their vocabulary better.

However, there are some cons to reading the newspaper, such as the lack of efficiency and not getting the news everyone wants to read. To begin with, Print newspapers are expensive. Some people cannot afford buying the newspaper, and the cost of subscriptions for the newspapers to be delivered at home. Adding to this, it is not environmentally friendly to print newspapers. 95 million trees are used to produce newspapers per year.
