The Covid-19 coronavirus is a coronavirus, one of 7 identified in the world, that originated somewhere around Wuhan city, Hubei Province in China and became apparent in late December 2019. The Covid-19 virus has now spread around the world resulting in a pandemic with millions of people forced into quarantine to avoid the further spread of the disease. In the Thai government's mass vaccination drive, which was launched on February 28, a total of 122,473,371 doses have been administered, according to the CCSA. Yesterday, 61,074 people received their first dose of the vaccine, 43,136 received their second dose, and 183,689 people received a third shot to boost their immunity against the coronavirus.
