1.Put the numbers of the sentences in the right order to make a thank-you letter.

Yours very sincerely,

I am looking for some books that you might like to have, and I shall be sending them out soon.

We spent a weekend in London on our way back, and it was a pleasant rest. Following this, the conference in Pans was quite interesting.

We arrived home with beautiful memories, which we shall always cherish, and with deep feelings of gratitude and appreciation for the people we met in England.

With best regards from my wife and myself.

It was a great pleasure for my wife and me to make your acquaintance during our trip to England. Thanks to your companionship our stay in Brighton was even more enjoyable than we had ever dreamed possible, both from a social and from an intellectual point of view.

Dear Mrs. Tracey
