- 14 John looks like most people's idea of a typical entertainer for young people.
- 15 Comedy Kids will hold special parties at their clubs for young people if requested.
- 16 A lot of Comedy Kids comedians have the right qualities for performing at young people's parties.
- 17 Guests at Comedy Kids parties are invited to perform if they wish.
- 18 Comedy Kids have discovered lots of good young comedians who have not been trained.
- 19 In a year's time there'll be more classes available for young people wanting to be comedians.
- 20 Comedy Kids prefer it if the young people who join them are already quite confident.

Comedy Kids

Do you enjoy watching comedy? Do all your friends at school think you tell great jokes? Then why not come and see what's happening at Comedy Kids?

Comedy Kids own comedy clubs in several countries that are run just for young people aged 10-15. They're real clubs with real comedians, who are just as familiar with working in adult comedy clubs as they are working with children. But don't take our word for it – come and see for yourself!

The Comedy Kids company was set up by John Winterton, who says that no-one had thought of being a stand-up comedian for young people until he came along. In fact, his act quickly became so popular that he soon found lots of other comedians who wanted to join his company and perform for families and young people. And if you think, as many others do, that a young people's comedian leaps on stage in a brightly-coloured costume and big red nose – think again. John usually appears dressed in a cool black jacket and trousers – more like a Hollywood movie star than a circus clown!

If you're having a party at home Comedy Kids can come and perform for you there at your party – just ask! Of course, it's not the same as performing on stage, so we're always looking for comedians in the clubs who are good at working with small numbers of young people – and we've discovered there aren't many of them about! But the ones we have found are brilliant. Your very own comedian will also help you to tell your guests some jokes and silly stories – and they can join in too, if they want! It'll be fun – and very different from any party you've ever had before!

Here at Comedy Kids, it's not just about the adults telling the jokes. We also have very short 'open spots' where young people get the chance to perform. But we've yet to find someone who can do that without preparation, so we've set up the world's first 'Comedy Classes' to teach young people how to tell jokes on stage. At the moment our classes are only monthly, but we're planning to start a number of others over the coming year. So if you want to be a comedian but don't want to wait until you grow up, this is where you can do it. And if you're creative but feel you're lacking in the confidence to speak up, we can certainly help. We'll listen to what you want to do, and try to make it happen.

So what are you waiting for? Come and join Comedy Kids!

PART 4

Questions 21–25

Read the text and questions below.

For each question, choose the correct letter A, B, C or D.

In the exam, you mark your answers on a separate answer sheet.

To Camp or Not to Camp?

When I asked a group of my friends this question, everybody had a strong opinion. Camping was either terrible or wonderful – there was nothing in between. I think it depends on your childhood: if you had fun camping when you were a kid, then that was the beginning of a life-long enjoyment. But the opposite could also be true! The message for families is clear.

Personally, I loved camping when I was a child and I still do today. My father worked in the oil industry and my family moved from city to city. I was quite lonely, I realise now. I never felt that the holidays we spent in other cities were real holidays; real holidays were the ones when we got out into the countryside and slept in tents. I think every family should have that experience. And even though I still live and work in a big city, this remains my opinion.

The camping I remember was out there, up mountains, in forests, by rivers – not stuck in campsites. If you're camping with friends or family, that's who you want to be with, not all the other people you meet in campsites. They're too safe – although they do have great showers and shops, and they are reasonable value for money. In fact, a night at a site once in a while lets you all get your clothes clean and stock up with food. But, wherever you go, don't pack lots of things: keep it basic and you'll have a better time.

We took my children camping last summer. We could see they loved it: the freedom, cooking on a fire, looking at the stars at night. I like to think that they understood the value of fresh air and water, sunshine, running and swimming, and that it meant more to them than expensive beach holidays.

21 What is the writer's main purpose in writing the text?

- A To explain how to prepare for a camping trip.
- B To encourage families to go camping together.
- C To describe his childhood camping experiences.
- D To persuade parents to let their children go camping.

22 What does the writer say in the second paragraph?

- A He spent a lot of time with his parents when he was young.
- B He had a happy childhood.
- C He has always taken his holidays in the countryside.
- D He has always lived in cities.

23 What does the writer say about campsites?

- A It is useful to stay at campsites occasionally.
- B It is too expensive to stay at campsites.
- C They don't usually have enough facilities.
- D They are a good place to make friends.

24 What does he hope his children learnt on their last camping holiday?

- A The importance of simple things.
- B How to save money.
- C The names of stars.
- D How to cook food.

25 What is the writer most likely to say?

- A If you go camping, take a map that shows where campsites are.

- B People don't always realise that camping is enjoyed most by children.

- C The less you take with you when camping, the more you'll enjoy it.

- D Remember that camping can be quite dangerous, so plan your trip carefully.
