El Burrito: A Colorful Disappointment

By Teri Aki

When I walked into the restaurant El Burrito, I immediately liked the colorful Mexican decorations. They're beautiful. They have paper tablecloths – what an excellent idea! Kids can draw pictures on them and have fun! But the service was a real problem. They should improve it! It took our waiter twenty minutes to give us the menu. Our food came thirty minutes after the waiter took the order!

The food was not great. The starter was delicious – chips with salsa. The problem was the main meal. I had an awful soup. It was cold. My son ordered a chicken tamale. It didn't have a lot of chicken and it was very dry. The lemonade wasn't made with fresh lemons!

I give El Burrito one star. This place might be a good option in the future, but it needs a lot of hard work. I'm going to visit them again soon...
