I've got this new . It's so nice! I really love it. I'm having such a good time. The only thing is it's below an old lady, and that's a bit . Her name's Mrs Crumble. I always say hello I see her, 'How are you, Mrs Crumble?', 'Nice day, Mrs Crumble!' and all that, but she never . She just looks at me. I think she's deaf.

She probably thinks I'm unemployed because I don't go out to in the morning and I don't wear a suit. I think I wear really cool . Well, I'm a musician. I play the saxophone, and at the I'm playing in a jazz club. I don't start till 8.00 at night, and I don't finish till 2.00 in the morning, so I from 3.00 till 11.00.

There's only me living here, but my flat's a bit busy at the moment because some of the other guys in the are using it to keep their instruments in, so they're always coming in and out.

I've got a lovely , she's the singer in the band. She's so beautiful! She lives the other side of town, but obviously I see her every day because we work . She comes to my place sometimes. I know I make a bit of noise, because I my saxophone. See what I mean? What can I do? I have to practise somewhere!

I that old Mrs Crumble is always watching me. It's sad because she has nothing to do. I sorry for her, and I'm always really to her like I am to my own grandmother, but she's so suspicious of young people. She thinks we're all no good and drugs. It's just not true! I work really .
