My parents gave me a great present for my birthday – The Dictionary of Mythical Beasts. It was 0….. the most amazing…. (amazing) book I knew. I read it every night before I went to bed. One evening, I couldn't find it anywhere. "Oh, no" I said, "this is 1. ……. (bad) day of my life. Help me, Fred." But my brother was too busy playing his video game. "This is much 2. ……. (funny) than your book," he said. "No, it's not," I said. "My book teaches me things. Your game is just for fun." But when I play it," said Fred, "I see things that move quickly. This morning, I saw our dog with something in his mouth. It looked 4. ……. (big) than his toy. I took it from him and put it over there." I found my book in his basket. It was still good. "Thanks Fred," I said. "You are 5. ……. (good) brother in the world.
