Using “because”

We use the word “because” to connect two phrases in a sentence. We never begin a sentence with the word “because.” Use the example to help you answer the questions below.

	Why is John eating chicken? John is eating chicken because he is hungry.
	Why is Angela crying?
	Why is the tiger happy?
	Why is the boy wearing a jacket?
	Why is Jose angry?
	Why is the teacher running?
