I work full time as a nurse, and don't have much time for hobbies, but I've been interested in photography since I was a child.

On my last holiday to India, I took lots of pictures, and everyone I showed them to said they were great. So I decided to do a course.

At first, I was afraid I might not be good enough.

After all, it was my first time as a student for ten years!

But I loved it from the very first lesson.

When I was still at school, I started learning the violin.

It was fun and I was quite good at it, but I didn't do it for long, because I had so many other hobbies.

Then last year, I was having a hard time in my job, and my husband bought me a violin as a present. I started learning with a teacher again.

All three of my children are learning to play instruments too, so now we can practise with each other!

Last year I moved to a new city because of my job.

I didn't have anything to do in the evenings, so one of my colleagues said I should try a class at the local college.

I immediately thought of cooking.

My mum was a fantastic cook, and when I was a child I loved watching her in the kitchen, but I never learned how to cook myself.

The other students on the course are around my age, and sometimes we go to restaurants together, or even the cinema.
