

Candy Store

Trudy, Emmett, and Carlo went to their favorite candy shop, The Candy Cabin. Each person brought his or her own money. At The Candy Cabin, the friends each purchased their favorite types of candy.

Trudy had $5.00 from her weekly allowance. Each week Trudy took out the trash, washed the dishes, and made her bed daily. For these Emmett had $2.00 that his mother had given him earlier that morning. Emmett was allergic to nuts and chocolate, so he spent his money on Fruity Gummy Blasters. He did not buy many though. That's because he got a cavity in his tooth. His dentist told him to eat less sugar. For this reason, Emmett needed to restrict the amount of sugar he eats.

Carlo came to The Candy Cabin with $4.00. He wanted to purchase a Super Candy Sampler Pack, which he knew cost exactly $4.00. A Super Candy Sampler Pack included two candy bars, two packs of chewing gum, three types of Gummy Blasters, and a mystery treat. When Carlo reached into his pocket to get his money, he noticed that he only had $3.00. One of his dollars must have fallen out! Carlo looked all over the shop. But he did not see his dollar anywhere.

"Well, I guess I won't be getting the Super Candy Sampler Pack," he said. His face looked glum. Trudy reached into her pocket and pulled out a one-dollar bill. "Here you go,"

she said. "Hey!" Carlo smiled. "Thanks!"
