You will have one minute to make notes, and the examiner will give you a pencil and paper for writing on. If you speak for more than two minutes, the examiner will tell you to stop talking, but don't worry – you won't lose marks for this.

<input type="radio"/> Task card A Describe a useful website that you visit frequently. You should say: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> how you found out about the website how often you use the website what you use the website for and give your opinion on the website. 	<input type="radio"/> Task card B Describe a useful website that you visit frequently. You should say: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> who told you about the website when you use the website how the website helps you and say what you don't like about the website.

Exercise 7: Read the information about IELTS Speaking Part 3. Then watch the video of a student doing IELTS Speaking Part 3. Put the questions that the examiner asks in the correct order. (▶ Video 1.5)

In IELTS Speaking Part 3, you will be asked more generally about the topic that you talked about in Part 2. It is important that you are able to speak about topics in depth as well as on a personal level.

What types of thing make a city a good place to live?

So, cities are getting larger and larger, as you said. What are the advantages and disadvantages of this?

Do you think this is only a positive development?

Will young people still want to live in cities as they get older, do you think?

Why do so many young people want to live in cities?

Do people in your country generally prefer to live in cities or in the countryside?

Exercise 8: Read the information. Then watch the video of a student doing IELTS Speaking Part 3 again. Match the techniques for extending answers with the student's answers. (Video 1.6)

In IELTS Speaking Part 3, it is important that you extend your answers as fully as possible. There are different strategies for dealing with different question types.

If you are asked a question about the types of thing that make something good, you are required to provide a list of different things and reasons. In this situation, use discourse markers such as firstly, secondly, finally, etc. to help you move from point to point.

If you are asked a Yes / No question that asks for your opinion on a topic (e.g. Do you think cities are becoming too overcrowded?), try to use more creative vocabulary rather than just using yes or no for your response. For example, instead of yes, you could say:

I believe so, yes.

Absolutely!

Yes, I think so.

Instead of no, you could say:

Personally, I don't see it that way.

No, I don't believe that to be true.

expanding on the topic to see the bigger picture explaining what might be happening now and in the future explaining why something happens or happened

giving real life examples

providing a list of different reasons

stating or explaining your own view or preference

- 1 'First of all, I think the environment must be good ... And secondly, I think transportation in a big city must be convenient ... And thirdly, I think people should be friendly ...'

2 'People wanted to move to big cities to improve their living standards.'

3 'I'd prefer to live in countryside because the air is much better.'

4 'The biggest advantage of cities getting larger is that it can improve the whole economy of our country.'

5 'For example, the city I lived in is Hangzhou, and the house price is really high.'

6 'Maybe some teenagers or young people want to live in a big city and want their next generation to study in a big city to get a good education.'

Exercise 9: Read the information. Then complete the conditional sentences with the words and phrases in the box. Watch the video and check your answers. (▶ Video 1.7)

In IELTS Speaking Part 3, you will need to talk about different results and consequences. It is therefore important to be able to use conditional sentences in different ways.
