

Eng302- Culture Shock

Student's name:

Class:

Read the text and fill the gaps

Culture Shock !

Living abroad can be an amazing experience that encourages personal development and growth. However, it may also make you feel lonely and lost.

Culture shock is a

Culture shock generally moves through four different phases:

1- The honeymoon phase:

.....

2- The frustration phase:

.....

3- The adjustment phase:

.....

4- The acceptance phase:

.....

Here travelers reach a good feeling towards the new culture they're in. they feel settled in and are at peace living in this environment and could possibly enjoy it.

Travelers here feel more comfortable with their new environment. They start to build good relationships with people and learn how to adapt.

Travelers feel excited about this new adventure and are happy and stimulated to learn all about the new culture.

It's the most difficult phase. Travelers feel like strangers to the places, people, language and food. This phase is familiar to those who travel for long periods.

a phenomenon that affects people living abroad and are feeling lost and confused with their new environment.

Ministry of Education-2020

Q1: Define culture shock:

Q2: List the stages of culture shock:

Q3: explain the honeymoon stage briefly: