In the UK <sup>1</sup>____, people throw away about 1,500 kg of food packaging <sup>2</sup>____ second. It makes up about 25% of household waste. This is a <sup>3</sup>____ problem for the environment, and it is also expensive. The amount of rubbish that ordinary families produce is increasing by 3% every year. The <sup>4</sup>____ of collecting this rubbish is about £2.5 billion, and rising.

Where does all this packaging go? A lot of it ends up <sup>5</sup>____ China. Each year, the UK <sup>6</sup>____ China to receive about two million tonnes of its waste. Most of the plastic waste goes to Lianjiao, a small village in the south of the country. As a result, the river there has become dirty and the air is <sup>7</sup>____. There is also a growing problem with <sup>8</sup>____, as some of the workers at the recycling centres are as young as four.

Most people agree that the companies who make sandwiches, pizzas and other products should take action. If they used less packaging, it <sup>9</sup>____ reduce the amount of waste. So some newspapers and politicians in the UK are telling people that they <sup>10</sup>____ to take unnecessary plastic packaging back to the supermarket and leave it there.

Hi everyone!

Thanks for reading my blog. I'm sorry that <sup>1</sup>I'm not writing / I don't write / I haven't written anything for weeks - I've been really busy. Finally, I've got <sup>2</sup>a little / a few time on my own with the computer! Ellie and Oliver have <sup>3</sup>been / gone to bed, and Jim and Sarah <sup>4</sup>watch / are watching a film in the other room.

It was Daniel's birthday last Sunday and <sup>5</sup>he's had / he had a barbecue. I didn't know it was his birthday, so I <sup>6</sup>haven't / hadn't bought a present for him. (I bought him a book the next day.) The barbecue was good fun. I met <sup>7</sup>some / any really interesting people. But the <sup>8</sup>most / best / more exciting part was the badminton tournament. I won it! While we were in the garden, some wallets <sup>9</sup>was / were stolen from the house. Daniel called the police, but they <sup>10</sup>weren't coming / didn't come.

This is my last month in England. <sup>11</sup>I'll go / I'm going home in three weeks! I wish I <sup>12</sup>can / could stay a bit longer, but I've already bought my plane ticket. I phoned the travel agency, but they said that I <sup>13</sup>didn't / couldn't change it. I've really enjoyed <sup>14</sup>living / to live with this family. I'm sure I'll see them again soon. If I have enough money, <sup>15</sup>I'm visiting / I'll visit / I'd visit them next year.
