LIVEWORKSHEETS

When we meet people for the first time, we often make decisions about them. This is based entirely on how they look. And of course, we too are being judged on our appearance. Undoubtedly, it's what's inside that's important but sometimes we can send out the wrong signals and so get a negative reaction, simply by wearing inapprooriate clothing.

When selecting your clothes each day, it is therefore important to think about who you're likely to meet, where you are going to be spending most of your time and what tasks you are likely to perform. Clearly, on a practical level, some outfits will be more appropriate to different sorts of activity this will dictate your choice to an extent. After all, if your dress to please somebody else's idea of what looks good, you may end up feeling uncomfortable and not quite yourself.

Some colors bring your natural coloring to life and others can give you a washed – out appearance. Try out new ones by all means but remember that dressing in bright colors when you really like subtle neutral tones or vice versa will make you feel self-conscious and uncomfortable. You know deep down where your own taste boundaries lie. It may be fun to cross these sometimes, but do take care not to go too far all at once.

Reappraising your image isn't selfish because everyone who comes into contact with benefit. You'll look better and you'll feel a better person all around.
