

How Many, Which one, What Kind

Name: _____ Date: _____

Adjectives can help describe nouns by telling how many, which one or what kind of something they are.

Example:

After drinking a power shake, I feel like I could run ten miles on this track.

The adjective power tells what kind of shake it is. The adjective ten tells the number of miles the speaker thinks he or she can run. The adjective this tells which track we are talking about.

Write whether the underlined adjective tells how many, which one or what kind.

(1) This cake recipe asks for half a cup of whole milk. _____

(2) Some kid in the class gave me this chocolate. _____

(3) Mary's beautiful cat jumped the fence and ran to the street. _____

(4) Alexander can type more than seventy words per minute on a computer! _____

(5) The old car needs another quart of water. _____

(6) We got stuck in the elevator, we were in the sixth floor. _____

Fill in the blanks with adjectives that could complete each sentence according to the type in parenthesis.

(7) A _____ delicious set of donuts were inside the box.
(what kind)

(8) _____ apples are very close to us, I'm getting hungry!! (which one)
_____

(9) The Spanish alphabet has _____ letters. (how many)

(10) The _____ girl loves to read and listen to music. (what kind)