Unit 1: My First Job
Lesson: Writing a Resume

Read the information about how to write a RESUME

Parts of a Resume

The "contact section" of your resume is at the top of the page. It includes your name, address, email address and phone number. Your name should stand out, so make it bold and in a larger font than the rest of your contact information.

Here you write the name of your job or your profession. The profile includes a summary of your skills and job experiences. The skills must be written with bullet points.

In the "experience section" you name the companies you have worked for, the position and dates of employment.

Start with the current employment and go back into the past chronologically.

Write the name of the company and the city.
Write the position, the month and the present year.

Write the name of the company and the city.
Write the position, the month and the year.

The "education section" of your resume is where you show the employer your academic achievements. List the University you attended, the degree you obtained, and any special awards and honors you earned. Include your High School at the end.
