

Add the attached question (CAN AND COULD)

Example:

You can hear me.

You can hear me, can't you? Yes I can.

1. You can take your brother to the mall.
2. I could answer all the questions.
3. George couldn't speak Germán last year.
4. Mike can't open the bottle.
5. Mr. Osaka can understand Japanese very well.
6. The boys couldn't swim lást year.
7. We can swing on the tree.
8. You can't hear me with that noise.
9. Charlie and John can lift weights.
10. You couldn't make enough money.

Will and Won't

1. I will be on time today.
2. I won't be late today.
3. Joan will make train connections.
4. They won't have time to go swimming.
5. Tom won't participate in the game.
6. Frank will play.
7. They'll be in school tomorrow.
8. Her husband will be at the gym in the morning.
9. You'll be there, too.
10. I won't forget to come tomorrow.

Would and Should

1. I wouldn't forget to come.
2. Robert shouldn't do that.
3. Alice would like to see the movie.
4. You should practice speaking English.
5. You would like to meet us at the game.
6. I should ask the doctor.
7. Tom wouldn't like to hurt himself.
8. They shouldn't get lost.
9. You wouldn't lose your money.
10. They would like to learn to ski.

Have and Has (Present Perfect)

1. They've already lost their money.
2. You haven't gone yet.
3. John hasn't told about it yet.
4. Helen has already gone home.
5. You haven't started to write your homework.
6. She's already finished her exam.
7. We haven't been late yet.
8. They haven't elected the leader yet.
9. We've already won seven games this lesson.
10. Dr. Johnson hasn't left home yet.