Last year, my brother and I went to Miami for a vacation. We had never been there, so we were obviously excited about the trip. We had planned for months, so when the day came, we were ready.

After our plane landed, we went to the hotel. We had made our reservation six months earlier, but the man at the front desk said there had been a mistake. Our rooms hadn't been reserved for that week, but for the week before. The hotel was full, so we didn't have a room, and my credit card had been charged for the earlier reservation. Luckily, the manager came out and talked to us. She was surprisingly helpful. She apologized for the mistake and gave us a huge room on the top floor. We had never stayed in such an amazing room, and we weren't charged extra.

The next day, we went to the beach. I swam in the ocean while my brother watched some people play volleyball. We got a little sunburned, but the day had been so relaxing that we didn't mind. In the evening, we ate some great Cuban food at a restaurant in South Beach.

Later in the week, we went to Parrot Jungle Island. I had read that it was one of the best places to see tropical birds up close. We were not disappointed! After our trip to Parrot Jungle Island, we took a boat trip through Everglades National Park. We also enjoyed an easy walk through the subtropical jungle. It was a wonderful vacation.
