When I was a child my family go to France every summer. We drived all the way from Scotland to the south of Spain and we stayed always in the same apartment in a small town called Hossegor. Near the town there were a long, sandy beach where you could go swimming and surfing. My father don't like the sea, so he would stay on the beach reading her newspaper. We went never to restaurants, but bought food at the market – the fresh fishes was delicious! I think my family holidays in France was the better holidays ever!

My Madrid

Madrid is the capital of spain. Its famous for it's art gallerys and its nightlife! Most tourists visit the prado art gallery and the Royal Palace before going out for dinner and partying.

But if you want to get away from the crowds, here are some places you can visit:

- Templo de Debod – this beautiful old egyptian temple is surprising, but it's the better place in Madrid to watch the sunset.
- Parque de Capricho – this is my favourite park in madrid. Away from the city centre, this peaceful park has a lake statues and beautiful plants. Its perfect for a picnic or a walk on a sunny day.
- Plaza Santa Ana – tourists go to restaurants in the Plaza Mayor, but if you want to eat where local people eats, Santa Ana is a great place to visit. Its full of bars, cafés and restaurants and its easy to spend an afternoon their watching people go by.
