Syllables and Stress

Mary and I have been best friends for many years. We enjoy hanging out with one another and just talking. Every summer we go on a special trip together and this year I really wanted to visit Huang Shan, one of the most famous mountains in all of China. However, when I told Mary my idea, she said that she would rather travel to Beijing, the capital city of China. I told her we have already visited Beijing twice but we have never gone to Huang Shan. Now she is a little angry with me and we don't know if we will go anywhere this summer.
