1. Look at the photo of some children from a village in India. What is special about them?

2. Work with a partner and answer the questions.

- a) Why are people from Kodinhi not typical?
- b) Are people in Kodinhi happy to have twins?
- c) Why are there a lot of twins in Kodinhi?

3. Answer this question.

Do you have twins in your family? Are any of your friends twins? It's good or bad to be a twin? Why?

TWIN VILLAGE

Kodinhi is a small village in Kerala in south India. It's a typical village, but its people are not typical. Two thousand families live here and 290 families have twins. In India seven babies in 1,000 are twins, but in Kodinhi, forty-five babies in 1,000 are twins.

Mohammed Rashin's family is from Kodinhi. He and his wife have seven boys. Four of their sons are twins. Mohammed says, 'My wife and I are very happy with our family. Everyone in the village is happy.'

But why are there so many twins in Kodinhi? How is it possible? No one really has an answer, but the village doctor says it isn't genetic; he thinks it's something in the water or the food.

- typical a good example of something that's usual, normal, average
- genetic things that come from your parents, like blue eyes or brown hair
