Toyota Motor Vietnam is one of the top automobile manufacturers in Vietnam. Every year, Toyota assembles and produces 36,000 cars of five models: Camry, Corolla Altis, Vios, Innova and Fortuner. All of these models, along with those of other manufacturers such as BMW or Audi, are always in the top ten list of the best-selling cars in Vietnam's auto market.

Toyota's headquarter is a nice modern complex in Phuc Yen town, Vinh Phuc province. The manufacturing area of Toyota is a huge building with three floors. There are several workshops and some other offices in the building. The offices, such as manager office, car designing office or technical support room, are mostly on the third floor. There is also a room for the staff to relax during break time or at noon.

All of the workshops are on the first and second floor. They consists of a stamping shop, a welding shop, a painting shop, an assembly shop and an inspection area. On the second floor, the stamping shop is opposite the welding shop. In these workshops, workers produce different parts of a car.

After all the car parts are made, the workers take them to the assembly shop on the left side and then to the painting shop on the right side of the first floor for assembling and painting to produce a complete car. Alexander Fleming was born in 1881 in Scotland. He went to a small school in a village, and when he left school, he didn't go to the university. He worked for five years in an office. But his brother, Tom, was a doctor and helped Fleming to go to university and study medicine. So he went to London University and in 1906 became a doctor. In 1915, Fleming married Sarah Mc Elroy, an Irish woman. They had one son.

Fleming worked as a doctor in the First World War (1914-1918). During the war, many soldiers died in hospital because they didn't have the right medicines. So after the war, Fleming tried to find a drug that could help them. He worked for many years and in 1928 he discovered a new drug. He called it "penicillin". He later worked with an Australian and a German scientist to develop a drug that doctor could use. In 1945, they won the Nobel Prize in medicine for their work on penicillin.
