"You know we've been reading a lot about the _____ and it's really interesting."

"So, let's go?"

"Let's go."

"Do you know why I decided to become _____?"

"No."

"Because cinema is considered an art that involves other types of art like _____, _____. _____…"

"When you think about it, it is true. Movies do have _____ and sometimes _____."

"Yeah, and of course a lot of _____, not to mention writing, which is _____."

"You got it, perfect! This is why cinema is considered by many experts as being _____ than other types of art."

"And there's another thing… who doesn't like _____?"

"I know I do. Ok, let's go and have a seat there."

[Music]

"Guys, I think we should ask for information and decide what to see first."

"I am sure you are going to find some _____ here, Pierre. You do like _____, right?"

"Yes, I love to watch movies _____more about the history of film."

"I know cinema is a French _____."

"And two French brothers were pioneers in making movies."

"Well, to be fair, cinema was created after a series of inventions and developments but according to many cinema historians, you are both right, Anderson. Cinema seems to have been created by _____."

"Can you tell us more about them?"

"Sure, they were Auguste and Louis Lumiere of the Lumiere brothers, as they are known all over the world."

"I wonder how _____ looked like."

"Well, one of the first movies ever made was 'L'Arrivée d'un train en gare de La Ciotat', the arrival of a train at La Ciotat and it was exactly this: it showed a train arriving at the station."

"And that's it?"

"Yes, let me show you the whole movie, you will see it: only lasts _____seconds."

"Well, I am sure it was a great novelty for the time."

"Oh, it sure was."

"Okay, this is it: the arrival of a train at La Ciotat was shot in _____ in the train station of La Ciota in the south of France. It is actually a very important _____. It is very well recorded. A little more…and voila! That's it!"
