

When you think of explorers what do you imagine? imagine. imagine! I imagine groups of men man with guns gun and swords sword to protect them from the wild, furious animals as they make their the way through throw the deep, dark jungle. Well today I'm Im im going to tell you the story of an altogether different type of explorer.

Maryam was is always a curious child children. Her She mind was full fill of wonder. Everything fascinated her she and she her always wanted want to know no more. She her loved all of if her subjects at school, because they taught her him something new. Sport kept keep her fit, Maths improved improve her problem solving, English allowed allow her to explore new knew topics and Biology biology taught teach her about how why the world works work.

Such a curious child was always going gone to grow up and travel. Her dream was is to explore africa Africa. africa Africa had everything an a explorer could dream of. It has had lions, tigers and hippos, magical waterfalls and an a unusual culture.

Her dream came true when at university. there is was an a opportunity to go to kenya Kenya to help in the schools. Maryam couldn't couldnt believe when she was selected. selected Her His mind raced racing, "What will it be like? Where will I sleep? What will I eat?". "What will it be like. Where will I sleep. What will I eat." An A adventure of epic proportions awaited awaiting her she and her she could can barely contain her excitement.