Celebrating with Food

People all around the world like to celebrate holidays, weddings, and the start of a new season with special food. Some cultures even celebrate food with special festivals! These festivals usually happen once a year. They can be fun and funny, but most of all, they're delicious.

One big food event, the Gilroy Garlic Festival, happens in July. The area around the town of Gilroy, California, produces huge amounts of garlic. Every year, over 4,000 volunteers provide food and entertainment for over 100,000 guests. Cooks prepare and sell many different types of dishes, all containing garlic. You can even buy garlic popcorn and garlic ice cream.

The International White Truffle Fair happens in October in Alba, Italy. At the fair, visitors enjoy eating truffles, a kind of fungus. Truffles are a delicious ingredient in omelets, pasta, risotto and rice. They can be very expensive; they sometimes cost $3000 per pound (0.45 kg)!

A very traditional food festival happens in Helsinki, Finland. The Baltic Herring Festival is over two hundred seventy years old and celebrates the popular fish, the herring. For one week in the month of October, fishermen sell fried herring, herring soup, herring sandwiches and even herring pizza. You can buy fresh herring, too, and then take it home and make your own recipe. Other people sell handmade crafts and warm, wool clothes for the winter.

Finally, a very popular Festival happens in Gloucestershire, UK. This festival, called The Cooper's Hill Cheese-Rolling and Wake, is over 200 years old. Organizers of the event buy a large piece of cheese. It weighs over 6 lb (2.72 kg). They then drop it down the hill. As spectators watch and cheer, young men run down the hill after the cheese. There are ambulances at the bottom of the hill because people often fall and sometimes they get hurt. Cheese-rolling is dangerous, but it is a lot of fun.
