The Lady with the Lamp

Florence Nightingale was born in Italy in 1820.

She was from a rich family. When she was just one year old, her family moved to England.

Her life changed when she met a man called Sidney Herbert. Most women at that time were wives and mothers, but Florence wanted to look after the sick, so with his help, she decided to become a nurse.

Sidney was an important man in the British government and he asked Florence to go to the war in Crimea by the Black Sea and help the sick soldiers. Florence arrived there in 1854 and started to work in a hospital.

She worked for twenty hours a day. She cleaned the hospital, cooked food and cared for the sick men.

At night, Florence talked to the men and wrote letters for them when they were too sick to write themselves.

She carried a lamp at night so newspapers back in the UK called her 'The Lady with the Lamp'. Florence returned to the UK in 1856 and met the Queen.

People were very pleased with her work and many gave her money, so in 1860, she started a school for nurses. Her teaching helped many nurses and improved hospitals all over the world.

1 Where did Florence Nightingale's family go when she was very young?

2 Who helped her decide to be a nurse? _____

3 When did she go to Crimea? _____

4 Who did Florence meet after the war? _____

5 What did she do in 1860? _____
