Stop wasting food at school

According to school lunch director, Marge Kaplan, 'the children are making a big effort to think in a sensible way about the food they put on their plates. We now have about 15% less waste and we think this percentage will grow as more children join in the campaign.'

The school canteen now offers two portion sizes for all main meals: small and large. This week they'll replace single bread rolls with slices of bread. You can take as many slices as you want, but one at a time to save waste.
