

Friend: Anne, have you been to that new shopping centre?

Anne: The Forest Centre?

Friend: No. I mean Queen's, the new one near the river.

Anne: Oh. I've seen the advertisement. It's got the largest café and bookshop in the country.

Friend: It will have. Only the clothes shops are open this month.

Anne: Well, that's OK. But it's at least thirty kilometres away and I haven't got a car.

Friend: Well, there is a coach once a week.

Anne: Is there? I can get that if it's not on Saturday. I have to work then.

Friend: It goes on Tuesday. But it's best to get your ticket on Monday.

Anne: Is the ticket expensive?

Friend: Ten pounds eighty for adults, two pounds fifty for children and only five pounds sixty for students like you.

Anne: Not bad. Does it go from the bus station?

Friend: Yes, and it stops in Market Square and outside the museum in Broad Street.

Anne: Oh, good. I'll get it there. Broad Street is really near my house. Does it leave early?

Friend: Twenty past nine and you get to the shopping centre forty minutes later at ten o'clock.

Anne: Great!
