In conclusion, uniforms limit personal freedom and do not allow young people to express their individuality, so they should not have to wear them.

Another factor to consider, uniforms make it difficult for students to express their personalities through fashion. This is because clothes say a lot about someone.

it removes their freedom of choice and restricts their personal expression.

Do/did you ever have trouble deciding what to wear to school?

For instance, if a student feels happy, he or she can choose clothes that reflect their mood,

In addition, a business shirt, fashionable shoes or a dress show that they are more formal.

Should school students have to wear uniforms?

_____ Some schools remove that choice from students by requiring them to wear a uniform. In my opinion, students should not have to wear uniforms because _____ also if they are sick, they can wear comfortable clothes that make them feel better.

Firstly, when students have to wear a uniform, it limits their personal freedom to choose which clothes they would like to wear. Selecting clothing is a small daily way to exercise freedom of choice. _____

_____

For example, if a person wears casual sports clothes much of the time, they are clearly easy-going and active. _____

_____

They should be able to wear their own clothing to school, so that they can exercise their freedom of choice and express their feelings and personalities.

LIVEWORKSHEETS