Aron Ralston's Story of Survival

If you have seen the film '127 Hours', you know how Aron's story (0) go, but for those who haven't, it's a real shocker. 'What (1) start as a 'walk in the park' became ' a 127-hourordeal that forced (2) a American mountaineer to amputate his arm. This is the true story (3) beside the standout film. Aron was hiking alone in Bluejohn Canyon, Utah, one day. While (4) descends a canyon, a boulder fell and trapped (5) its right arm. For five days, he survived off of his packed water and snacks, hoping someone would find him. Trouble is, not only was the spot remote, (6) and he also had not told anyone where he was going. Realising that he may never be found, he was forced to amputate his arm by (7) cut through the bone using his multi-tool that included a knife. Upon freeing himself, he began the seven-mile walk back. to his truck. During his journey, a family (8) discover him and alerted authorities. He lost 40 lbs during his ordeal and it is nothing short of a miracle that he didn't bleed to death. 'We have these very fµndamental. desires for freedom, for love and for connection. And that's what got me out,' Aron recalled.
