

Boy: Mum! Miss Right at school is going to take some of us on a camping holiday! Can I go?

Woman: For how long?

Boy: It's just for three days?

Woman: Oh! I see.

Can you see the answer? Now you listen and write.

Woman: When is this holiday?

Boy: She's going to leave on June 6th and come back home on the 9th.

Woman: Hmm. I must write that in my diary. All right. And where will you camp?

Boy: On a farm. It's called Burley Farm. That's B-U-R-L-E-Y. Miss Right wrote board.

Woman: Oh, I know. It's near the forest. We went there on holiday once. Do you remember?

Boy: No!

Woman: You were very little. But I have a few more questions.

Boy: OK.

Woman: How many children are going to go?

Boy: Only ten children and there will be two teachers with us.
That's ok, isn't it?

Woman: Yes. What do you have to take with you?

Boy: We don't need to take any tents. The teachers will bring them, but I will have to take a rucksack to carry things in.

Woman: OK, and what are you going to do on this holiday?
Sports? Learn about the farm animals there?

Boy: No. We're going to learn about insects. We're going to watch them. draw them and take pictures of them.

Woman: That sounds interesting! Perhaps I'll come too!

Boy: Mum! You can't! You're too big!
