

Man: Hello. Can I help you?

Boy: Yes. I want to play football with the 'High Flyers' club.

Man: I see. What's your name?

Boy: David. David Smith.

Man: How do you spell that?

It's S-M-I-T-H.

Can you see the answer? Now you listen and write.

[pause]

Man: How old are you, David?

Boy: Is It important?

Man: Yes. Children have to be eleven or older to play with the High Flyers.

Boy: Oh, that's OK. I'm twelve.

Man: Good. Have you played football before?

Boy: Oh, yes. I played for my village team.

They're called the Tigers. We played twice a week in the winter and the spring.

I left the team because It's for younger children.

Man: I understand. Well, that sounds fine. You'll be in our second team.

Boy: Oh - can't I be in your first team?

Man: No, I'm sorry, David. Not until next year.

Boy: What's the second team called? Has it got a name?

Man: Yes, it's called the 'Rockets'.

Boy: Mm. That's a good name! Does the team play on Saturday?

Man: Yes, it does. In the afternoon. Is that a problem for you?

Boy: No, that's better for me because I have a guitar lesson in the morning.

Man: OK. Now, the place, so listen carefully. We meet at Boundary Sports Centre ...

Boy: Sorry, how do you spell that?

Man: It's B-O-U-N-D-A-R-Y. The same name as the road.

Boy: All right.

Man: Can your mum or dad bring you there?

Boy: Yes. My mum will bring me.

Man: Excellent! Well, see you next month, David.

Boy: Thanks. Bye.
