

Presentation

Use the present perfect to talk about your experiences – the things you've done, and haven't done, in your life. Form the present perfect with have / has + past participle.

Past participle

With regular verbs, add -ed: ski → skied

Some verbs are irregular: see → seen, fly → flown

Affirmative and negative

I / You / We / They	've (have) haven't (have not)	visited	Paris.
He / She / It	's (has) hasn't (has not)

	has	he / she / it
	Have	I / you / we / they	visited	Paris?
	Has	he / she / it

Short answers

Yes, I / you / we / they	have.	No, I / you / we / they	haven't.
Yes, he / she / it	has.	No, he / she / it	hasn't.

ever / never

You often use the present perfect with ever and never:

Have you ever driven a jeep? (ever = in your life)

I've never been to India. (never = not in my whole life)

You also use the present perfect with not / never ... before: I haven't been here before. I've never skied before. You use the present perfect and not the simple past with the first / second / third time.

Say This is the first time I've ridden a bike. (Don't say This is the first time I ride a bike.)

Present perfect and simple past

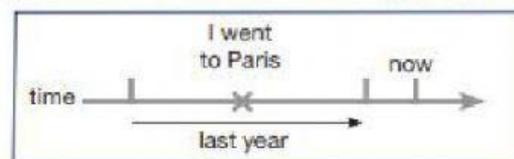

Use the present perfect to talk about experiences in general. You do not say when it happened.

Have you been to Paris? (= at any time in your life)

You often use the simple past after present perfect questions to give information about specific events and times in the past.

Yes, I have. I went last year, with my friend Maddy.

When you are talking about experiences, you often use been as the past participle for go.

Say I've been to Paris three times. (Don't say I've gone to Paris three times.)

Present perfect with for and since

Presentation

You use the present perfect with how long, for, and since to talk about an action or a situation that started in the past and continues in the present.

He's worked here for over fifty-five years. (He started working here fifty-five years ago—he still works here.)
I haven't played tennis since I left school.

How long have you known Steve?

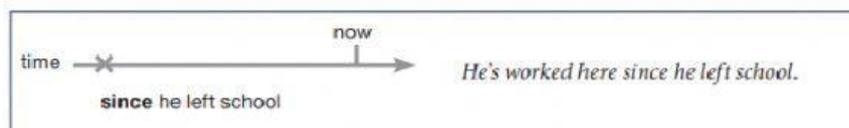

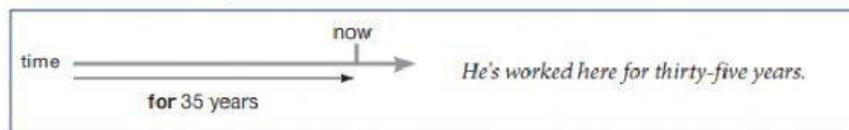

You do not use the simple present. (Don't say He works here for over fifty-five years.)

for and since

You use for to talk about a period of time:

He's worked here for fifty-five years / a long time.

You use since with the point in time when the action started:

Use prepositions of movement to talk about the direction of the movement:

Prepositions of movement usually follow a verb of movement, for example: go, travel, get, put, walk, run, dive, fall, come, move, sail, float, drive.

You sometimes use in/out for into/out of and on for onto when speaking informally:

We got into the car = We got in the car.

Note that into and out of must be followed by a noun.
