

PÀGINA EVALUADA POR EL PROFESOR

“I have an idea!” said Hansel. “We can drop bread crumbs this time!”

So, the next morning, when the woodcutter took the children deep inside the forest to leave them there again, the children dropped crumbs of bread all along the way.

But sadly for the children, the animals and birds had eaten up all the crumbs!

Now, Hansel and Gretel walked and walked but couldn't find their way back home.
