From a young age, Michaela's life was extremely difficult. When she was three years old, she lost both her parents in the civil war in Sierra Leone. I admire Michaela because she's a very strong and brave person. As well as ballet dancing, she spends a lot of time helping young people who have problems in their lives. ³ _____ When I didn't get the grades that I needed to study medicine in college, Michaela's story inspired me, and I didn't give up.
