Parts of a flower

- The [ ] is the male part of a flower.
- It produces a powder called [ ]
- Pollen spreads to the carpel of another flower.

- The [ ] is the female part.
- The carpel receives the pollen from the stamen of another flower.

- The [ ] of some flowers are large and brightly coloured.
- Petals may have a pleasant scent.

- The [ ] are on the outside of the flower.
- In a young flower, the sepals cover and protect the other parts.

Use the following words to fill the blank!

- Stamen
- Pollen
- Petals
- Carpel
- Sepals

LIVEWORKSHEETS