THE LAST SCHOOL TO CANE ITS GIRLS

In nearly all (0) A schools in England, pupils who misbehave are just told off by the teacher. However, at the expensive Rodney School, naughty girls are punished by being caned: they are hit in their hand with a stick! The headmistress, Miss Thomas, who has run the school for 47 years, says that she only canes the girls (1) _____ them rather than to hurt them.

Surprisingly, the girls agree with their headmistress methods: if they have done something wrong, they believe they deserve (2) _____. One girl (3) _____ name is Adele Kirkman, was given three strokes on each hand for going to a school celebration without her school uniform. To be fair, Adele was allowed to choose between 1421: The Year China Discovered America?

Is it possible that a fleet of Chinese ships made the long, dangerous journey across the Atlantic to land on the American continent seventy years before Christopher Columbus did? Gavin Menzies, a retired British submarine commander, claims _____ (find) clear evidence that they did. Menzies also suggests that the Chinese supplied Columbus with the maps that made his later journey possible.

Nobody disputes the capacity of the Chinese fleets for long sea voyages at that time. Well before Columbus, the famous Chinese explorer, Zheng He, and his dragon ships _____ (travel) on more than one occasion from China as far as the east coast of Africa. His early voyages _____ (document) in detail. History books tell us how his ships set sail from Nanjing on the River Yangtze, cruised through the Japanese Sea to Canton and Thailand, before _____ (sail) on to Malaysia where there was a supply post. Chinese artifacts and settlements in Sri Lanka and the east coast of Africa support claims that Zheng He sailed across the Indian Ocean in the late 14th or early 15th century.

On his sixth voyage, Zheng He took his fleet even further, according to Menzies. In his controversial book, 1421, The Year China Discovered the World, Menzies _____ (describe) how Zheng He's fleet rounded the Cape of Good Hope, set course westward across the Atlantic and reached the coast of Brazil some time in December 1421. The starting point for his theory is a 1424 map of Europe and the Atlantic which he says shows both Puerto Rico and Guadeloupe nearly 70 years before Columbus _____ (land) in America in 1492. Menzies argues that the map _____ (draw) by Zheng He and was later used by Columbus when he _____ (travel) through the Atlantic. But could this be possible? Menzies used computer simulations and reconstructions of 15th - century night skies so that he _____ (follow) Zheng He's course across the Atlantic.

Many scientists do not believe Menzies theory as valid and say that there isn't enough evidence to support these claims. However, Menzies and his team are currently looking for archeological evidence all along the American Atlantic coast. They _____ (surprise) us soon with some of their findings!
