A: So, you've actually <sup>1</sup> a way to record dreams on video. Is that really possible?

B: It certainly looks that way, and I'm really excited about it. Researchers have <sup>2</sup> many different approaches over the years,...and now we've finally <sup>3</sup> a method that works.

A: Yes. I'm sure you and your team <sup>4</sup> a lot together before you <sup>5</sup> finding success.

B: We sure did. Sometimes there were differences of opinion, but we <sup>6</sup> things <sup>7</sup> together. They're very dedicated, professional researchers.

A: Could you <sup>8</sup> the basic process for our listeners? How do you <sup>9</sup> recording someone's dream?

B: Well, we use technologies like EEG and magnetic resonance imaging, or MRI, to observe the brain as it processes images.... We <sup>9</sup> these machines a supercomputer, which can then create a video of whatever a person is dreaming about.
