

Formative work on Pronouns

Do you know your personal pronouns or possessive pronouns & determiners?

A personal pronoun refers to people, places, things, and ideas.

✚ A first-person personal pronoun refers to the one (or ones) speaking.

✚ The singular first-person pronouns are I, me, my, and mine.

✚ The plural first-person personal pronouns are we, our, ours, and us. e.g.: We told our story. I offered my opinion to the reporters. Ours is the less expensive model. The new family moved next door to us.

✚ A second-person personal pronoun refers to the one (or ones) spoken to.

✚ The singular and plural second-person personal pronouns are the same three words—you, your, and yours. Can you bring your book back here today? The present will be given to you. This award is yours.

✚ The third-person personal pronoun is the one (or ones) spoken about. The singular third-person personal pronouns include he, his, him, she, her, hers, it, and its. The plural third-person personal pronouns include they, their, theirs, and them. e.g. He and she wanted to take their children on a vacation. They asked him and her if the house had kept its appeal. Do you think that they will think that this car is theirs?

A reflexive pronoun is formed by adding “-self” or “-selves” to a personal pronoun.

✚ Reflexive pronouns include the first-person pronouns, myself and ourselves. The second-person pronouns are yourself and yourselves.

✚ The third-person pronouns are himself, herself, itself, and themselves. e.g. The young lady carried in all her packages by herself. They relied upon themselves to finish the daunting task. Will he remember to help himself to the food on the table?
