

Alphabet Poem

This is a maze game about the pronunciation of -ed endings. Go from top left to bottom right, you can't go up, passing through a hexagon only if the -ed is pronounced /t/.

ed = /t/ maze

booked a room | added oil | needed a hand | cooked a meal | crossed over | passed around checked in | asked around | hated us | invited everyone | danced alone rented a flat | printed an email | kissed a frog | kicked a ball | painted over | finished eating looked after | waited an hour | started again | jumped over | helped a lot missed a bus | texted a friend | visited often | needed a hand | walked away | visited often mixed up | waited an hour | stopped again | wanted a drink | worked out packed a bag | parked outside | pushed open | needed a hand | collected our mail | watched a film
