Answers:

☐ Some young people have money and they spend quite a lot of it on clothes. They like wearing smart clothes, loafers, tight fi tting sportswear. They like riding scooters. Their hair is well groomed and they have regular haircuts.

☐ But there are more and more people who like wearing comfortable clothes. They more in touch with the natural world. They think that today's world revolves are too much around money.

☐ Well, comfortable clothes ... with style.

☐ Camden Lock Market. You can get anything you want there — fake Levi's, leopard print swimsuits, old records, jewellery made from recycled metal. It attracts an amazing mixture of people, so it's fun just watching them. I often get inspired there.

☐ Well, London is the right place to be because it's famous for its street fashion and a lot of second-hand shops or markets - so young people can buy cheap clothes and create their own style.

☐ Yeah, of course. Some young people like dying their hair in bright colours. In big cities they are also connected with punk and rave.

☐ Yes. Fashion and music have always been connected. Let's say heavy metal is associated with leather jackets, long hair, tattoos, powerful motorbikes. While Punk was famous for a lot of strange accessories like chains, safety pins, and of course spiky hair, Rap goes together with baggy clothes.

☐ Well, I'd say a person's style depends on the imagination, not that much on money. I really believe in creating a style that doesn't cost much. Fashion should be more on the artistic side. Today it is still a big business
