Read the story about Judy and her mom. Then answer questions 9 to 12.

Judy walked into the kitchen and asked her mom for help. "Mom, can you help me with my homework?" "What's the homework about?" Judy's mom asked. "I have to write down five things I do in my house, but I can't think of any," Judy replied. Judy's mom looked surprised and asked, "What do you mean? We do many things in the house." "We do?" Judy asked. "Sure. First, what are you doing now?" Judy's mom asked. "I'm trying to do my homework in the living room," Judy replied. "Well, that's one thing. And what am I doing now?" Judy's mom asked again. "You are preparing dinner." "That's correct. Now, think about what you do in each room," said her mom. Judy thought carefully for a minute. "Well, I sleep in my bedroom, eat in the kitchen, watch TV in the living room, and take a shower in the bathroom," Judy answered. "I think you have just finished your homework," Judy's mom said with a smile. "Wow, you are great. I just need to write these down in my notebook. Thanks, Mom," Judy said. "You're welcome," Judy's mom replied.

"Mom, I'm done with my homework now. Can I have a cookie?" Judy asked. "Nope, we are going to have dinner in fifteen minutes. Go wash your hands," answered her mom.
