1. A building where a business keeps its products for some time is called a
2. A company belonging to a parent company which partially owns it and controls is called a
3. A department within a company working on innovation is called
4. The main office of a company is referred to as
5. Another word for a factory is a
6. are all the documents denoting facts.
7. An is used in some factories where new products are made by putting together parts produced in another place.
8. Another word for "to repair" something is to it.
9. A section in company structure where faulty products are repaired for customers is a
10. If technicians take care of the computer system they it.

LIVEWORKSHEETS