2. Read this description of a novel and fill in the gaps with who, that, which, whose, where or when.

A book 1 that I really used to love when I was a child was Black Beauty. It's a story 2 _____ takes place in nineteenth-century England at a time 3 _____ people were often cruel to animals. It's a kind of autobiography written from the horse's point of view about its experiences with a variety of owners.

As a young horse Black Beauty lives happily in a place 4 _____ everyone is kind to him. Unfortunately, when the owner has to go abroad, he sells him to a family 5 _____ are not so kind. He goes on to have a lot of bad experiences, 6 _____ is the sad part of the story, but it does all end happily in the end. Although people think of it as a children book, this is a novel 7 _____ helped to influence thinking about the way we treat animals and so it's a book 8 _____ message is timeless.
