Did you know ...?

New York City didn't use to be called New York City. Almost 400 years ago, it used to be called New Amsterdam. It became New York in 1664, when England took control of the area. Its name comes from the Duke of York, the brother of the English king.

From 1785 until 1790, New York City was the capital city of the U.S. Then the capital moved to Boston, and now the capital is Washington, D.C. Washington, D.C. is an important city, but it isn't as big as New York. There are more than 8 million people in New York City, and it's also very popular with tourists: more than 50 million tourists visit the city every year!
