A Dog's Lifespan

How does dog's lifespan compare to human's? Simply multiply dog's age by seven and you can see what it equals in human years. During years one and two of a dog's life, it is still puppy. It acts like baby, eats a lot, and has nonstop energy. It also must try things many times before it learns them, just like you. Years three to five are the young adult years. dogs this age are usually confident, healthy, and strong. Age six to eight marks a dog's middle-age years. They still like to play, be trained, and go for walks but may like to relax a bit more, too. By this stage of life, a dog is happily part of your family. If your dog is nine or ten years old, then your pal is really senior citizen. senior dogs are sweet and not demanding. They may also have more health problems. Most dogs this age just like to be by your side and to be petted a lot.

London Madame Tussaud's

One very famous place for tourists in London is Madame Tussaud's museum. Here people can see figures of famous people made of wax. Madame Tussaud was born in France in 1761. Her uncle, doctor, made wax figures of people. He opened museum of these figures in Paris. Marie helped him in his work. In 1789, during French Revolution, Marie was sent to prison. Here she had to copy heads of famous people when they were dead, including Queen Marie Antoinette's head. In 1795, Marie married Francois Tussaud and in 1802 she came to London with her wax figures. Here she opened museum and her figures can still be seen today.
