

Washington Redskins officially drop name

Anchorman : We have breaking NFL news : the Redskins confirmed that the will get a The move comes after renewed calls from plus some high-profile to abandon the long-standing that many view as Jan Crawford is following the story in Washington. Jan, has the franchise its new name yet ?

Jan Crawford : Well now the new name as not yet been released some pending trademark but for advocacy who have been pushing for this this is a long time coming. The franchise's majority Dan Snyder has been the team's year-old name but under growing , Snyder said earlier this month he was going to conduct a thorough of the name amid a renewed Now last week ESPN reported the team was giving up all native American imagery but it's going to keep of burgundy and gold. they're also responding to some of this renewed scrutiny. Baseball's Atlanta Braves told fans they their name but they're going to re-examine the use of the tomahawk chop cheer by fans some activists say that cheer perpetuates this And then the ice hockey team Chicago Blackhawks it's also standing behind its name. Their reason : they say that the native American Blackhawk it's an honor they say who has been an

Anchorman : Jan thanks

